Ways to work with Brad

KEEP THIS FOR WHEN IT'S USEFUL

I work with owners of established engineering and manufacturing businesses. I can help you decide what to fix first, or work with you and your team on a priority you've already chosen.

What it is, and when it helps	What you get	By when	Price (+ VAT)
Free 30-minute call You have something you'd like to talk through.	Tell me what's happening. I'll say what I'd look at first, and whether I think a closer look would help.	30 minutes, by phone or video, at a time you book	Free Stand-alone, no obligation
One-day business review You're unsure what to fix first, or what's really causing it.	I read the figures and documents we agree, then spend a day with you and anyone you choose to involve. You get a written report on the three main problems, what they may be costing where the figures support an estimate, and a 90-day plan for the first priority.	Usually within three weeks of booking. Report within a week of the day	£2,500
90 days of help You know what you want to improve.	Before we start, we agree what you want to change and how we'll measure progress. Three ways to do it:	We check progress together at days 30 and 60. Written review at day 90
A. With you	We meet fortnightly, with calls in between.		£6,000
B. With you and your managers	Weekly sessions and two half-day workshops, and I coach the two managers responsible for the plan.		£12,000
C. Weekly on-site support	A day or part of a day at your business each week, working with your team on the agreed priority. We agree the time on site and what I'll take on before you book.		£25,000
Monthly adviser You want an outside view on big decisions.	We meet monthly, with calls between sessions by agreement. You set the agenda, and we review how it's going every quarter.	Month by month. One month's notice either way	£3,000 a month

If you already know what you want help with, ask me for a proposal. If you want something different from the menu, we'll start with a call or a visit and agree what's needed and the terms.

Who you'd be working with. Brad Wright CEng has been trusted to deliver some of the nation's most critical programmes, and has run engineering businesses through turnaround, growth and acquisition. After 18 years as a Royal Navy engineer officer, he has spent three decades as a consultant, interim and permanent director, turning round critical infrastructure contracts and lifting margins.

Where and how. By video or in person, with whoever you choose to involve. Travel and accommodation for time in person are agreed beforehand and charged at cost. Fixed fees, no long contracts, and what you tell me stays confidential.

What you can expect. A second opinion from someone who has sat in your chair, a clear view of what to fix first and why, and a plan your own team can run. The work is shaped around what you want from the business, whether that's more profit, a business that needs you in fewer decisions, or confidence before a big call.

If the review isn't useful to you, tell me within 14 days of the report and I'll refund the fee. On the 90 days, you can stop at the day-30 review and pay only the first 30 days' fee. Agreed expenses are separate.

Some of what Brad has delivered. £70m of bespoke subsea ROV systems delivered in five months, with margins up 18 to 25%, at Forum Energy Technologies. A unionised workforce at EMCOR UK restructured from 274 to 138 in 90 days without disruption, with 97.5% performance against 62 KPIs. Seven acquired engineering businesses integrated as group COO of Futures UK.
