Ways to work with Brad

KEEP THIS FOR WHEN IT'S USEFUL

I work with owners of established engineering businesses, typically £3m to £30m turnover, including suppliers of defence and other demanding equipment. I can test your equipment plans against how they will really be used, help you decide what to fix first in the business, or work with you and your team on a priority you've already chosen.

What it is, and when it helps	What you get	By when	Price (+ VAT)
Free 30-minute call You have something you'd like to talk through.	Tell me what's happening. I'll say what I'd look at first, and whether I think a closer look would help.	30 minutes, by phone or video, at a time you book	Free
The defence review day Before a bid, a trial or an in-service review.	I work with your engineers and managers to test design, trial and support plans against how the equipment will really be used. You get a written report of the gaps and what to do first.	One day, usually within three weeks of booking. Report within a week of the day	£2,500 For days booked by 31 December 2026 £4,999 from 1 January 2027
One-day business review You're unsure what to fix first, or what's really causing it.	I read the figures and documents we agree, then spend a day with you and anyone you choose to involve. You get a written report on the three main problems, what they may be costing where the figures support an estimate, and a 90-day plan for the first priority.	Usually within three weeks of booking. Report within a week of the day	£2,500
90 days of help You know what you want to improve.	Before we start, we agree what you want to change and how we'll measure progress. Three ways to do it:	We check progress together at days 30 and 60. Written review at day 90
A. With you	We meet fortnightly, with calls in between.		£6,000
B. With you and your managers	Weekly sessions and two half-day workshops, and I coach the two managers responsible for the plan.		£12,000
C. Weekly on-site support	A day or part of a day at your business each week, working with your team on the agreed priority. We agree the time on site and what I'll take on before you book.		£25,000
Monthly adviser You want to think big decisions through with someone outside the business.	We meet monthly, with calls between sessions by agreement. You set the agenda, and we review how it's going every quarter.	Month by month. One month's notice either way	£3,000 a month

If you already know what you want help with, ask me for a proposal. After a review, you can run the plan with your own team or ask me to help.

Who you'd be working with. Brad Wright is a Chartered Engineer. He served 18 years as a Royal Navy weapon engineer officer, at sea on operations and at the Defence Procurement Agency (now part of DE&S), then ran engineering businesses through turnaround, growth and acquisition.

Where and how. By video or in person, with whoever you choose to involve. For time in person, I agree travel and accommodation with you beforehand and charge them at cost. Fixed fees, no long contracts, and what you tell me stays confidential.

Review fee back, and a day-30 decision. If a review day leaves you no clearer about what to fix first, email me within 14 days of receiving the report. If you supplied the information and gave the time we agreed, I'll refund the review fee. Agreed expenses are separate.

On the 90 days, if you choose to stop at the day-30 review, you pay only the first 30 days' fee, agreed before we start, plus any agreed expenses already incurred.

One example of the work. After a year of fortnightly sessions, a specialist manufacturer with turnover of about £4.5m is now run day to day by two managers who weren't in post when we started.
